May 2016

Last month I wrote in this space about some of the exciting buds and growing edges of South Church. But sometimes growing edges bring growing pains. I was fascinated this past Sunday to have a passage from Acts (11:1-18) where Peter gets in trouble with his Church Council for making things grow a bit too fast. Peter—as the result of a vision—welcomes, baptizes, and breaks bread with a Gentile Centurion named Cornelius. The Council is upset that Peter has “broken bread with the uncircumcised”. What happens next is what most intrigues me. Peter could have gotten into quite an argument: Was it a good idea? When should it happen? How should it be done? Who should do it? Don’t move so fast, etc. Instead Peter simply stands before the Council and shares his experience—the vision, voice of God, encounter with Cornelius, and the rest of the story. He concludes by saying: “...who was I that I could hinder God?” The Book of Acts tells us the Council was “silenced”—not in suppressed fury, but in open-hearted acceptance of what Peter has reported. As a result the church grows, changes, and new buds begin to flower.

Why are the church leaders so responsive to Peter? It’s because he’s so vulnerable and open with them, sharing his experience, hoping they will sense integrity in what he’s saying, what he’s done. When we try to out-argue we often don’t get far. When we are vulnerable sometimes the doors of transformation open.

In our culture right now there is a great deal of suspicion and hostility towards Muslims. The fear of terrorism is making it hard for us to welcome or break bread with anyone from the world of Islam. We can argue about such things. But a more effective response was on display in worship on April 17 when I had the privilege of sharing in dialogue with our two Miss Hall’s students who have volunteered at the Pantry this year. Helin Karakus is a sophomore from Adana, Turkey and is Muslim. Helin shared with us in a tender, vulnerable way her love for her work with the children and Sandie Smith at the Book Table on Thursday mornings at the Pantry. She showed me a ‘selfie’ she took snuggled up with a four year old she reads to each week. As with many in Turkey, Helin has been studying English since the first grade. Her parents are professors. Helin spent her eighth grade year with them at Indiana University—falling in love with my home state. Helin will return to Turkey in June and plans to help her grandmother who is a leading volunteer in Adana caring for nearby Syrian refugees struggling to survive. Turkey has been hit by many terrorist attacks. Many more Muslims have been killed by terrorists than have Westerners. This violence is repudiated by countless Muslims—like Helin and her family—who are trying to make their way in the world. And as Helin made clear, it is because of her faith that she and her family are working to bring comfort to refugees fleeing such horror.

I had not imagined that the Pantry ministry with its focus on local food insecurity would be an avenue for enlarging my experience of Islam, helping me see the world through the eyes of a hopeful, passionate, teenager from Turkey. Like that Council in Acts I am silenced in wonder at how God works in our midst to open doors, break down barriers, and enable us to break bread with one another across the world.

CHILDREN AND YOUTH

Unit 6 continues through May 15th. In class we have been following the Path from Easter. The path starts with a new beginning, the resurrection, and continues to the birthday of the Christian Church on Pentecost Sunday. Along the way we explore the formation of the new church with the strong faith and help from Peter, Paul and others.

Music continues with Bev Krol. Currently the children are working on two songs which are both written by Bev. One is titled "Lord Please Help Me Grow" and the other is "Fill My Heart with Love." Thank you Bev!

Our Pantry Sunday in April was a success. Thank you to all who donated canned pears. We collected 47 cans! Our food item for May is canned peaches. Thank you to all for supporting this important monthly mission project.

Just a reminder to families that there are plenty of wonderful books for the children to sign out and enjoy. They are on display in Cooke Center.

Finally, and most importantly, I would like to give a big cheer to Nowell Wesley. Nowell was baptized here on April 10th with his older sister, Osheanna assisting Rev. Joel. Welcome Nowell!

JUNE 5: CELEBRATING THE WORK AND MINISTRY OF BOB BLAFIELD

After more than a decade of serving as South Church's beloved organist and choir director, Bob Blafield will retire this spring. His final Sunday will be June 5, which also marks Chancel Choir's final appearance in worship before its annual summer break.

Bob came to South Church in 2005, having recently retired from Berkshire Lyric Theatre, an organization he founded in 1963. Bob also served a number of area churches and Temple Anshe Amunim in his wide-ranging career before making his way to South Church.

During his tenure at South, Bob has maintained a robust and enthusiastic choir membership, composed new music and engaged talented outside performers for special services, and blessed us all with his musical gifts and generous and thoughtful spirit.

Even though Bob is retiring, he will continue to give music lessons at home, be available for special occasions, and promises to maintain his connections to his many friends in the South Church family.

Please join us on June 5 for a special service of recognition and an opportunity to celebrate and give thanks for Bob's heartfelt ministry of music shared with us all.

it was below and before speech, and it is above and beyond all words.*

The following note was written to the Food Pantry volunteers from Helin Karakus, a student from Turkey who is currently attending Miss Hall's School :

To every volunteer in South Street Church,
I've seen a different side of life in this Church. I really enjoyed helping to people with all of you. You became my 3rd family in a short time (2nd one is Miss Hall's). I just wanted to let you all know that you all taught me so important things that will help me all my life. If you ever ask yourself
"Do I make a difference?" my answer is yes, you all did and keep doing. You all mean a lot to me and I'll never forget you. I'm so sad that it's time to say goodbye but I hope you all will have better "hello"s. THANK YOU FOR EVERYTHING! (TEŞEKKÜRLER)
Sincerely,

Helin Karakus (The Turkish girl from Miss Hall's)

MAY MATTOON

May Mattoon met on Tuesday, April 5th for a noontime lunch. There were 16 members in attendance. The tables were set in a spring theme. Hostesses were: Nancy deForest, Audra Kinner, and Bing Honig.

The guest speaker was Richard Howell who gave a very interesting scenario on the life of John Brown and the pivotal role he played during the American Revolution. Brown, who spent most of his younger days in Pittsfield, graduated from Yale. He returned and practiced law until he became interested in politics. He was a Revolutionary War Officer, a State Legislator, and a Berkshire County Judge. He died on his 36th birthday, October 19, 1780.

The next meeting will be held on Tuesday, May 3rd at Hancock Shaker Village with lunch and a tour of the village.

The "Food Delivery Access Project"

Through a deteriorated basement doorway on Church Street, tons of food enters South Church each week for distribution to local families. In March, the Western Mass. Food Bank in Hatfield brought 29,388 pounds by truck to that door. Each Tuesday, a team of volunteers meets the truck, unloads food crates onto unwieldy carts, and transports them into our walk-in-cooler, freezer, and food storage rooms. Every day of the week, volunteers pick up donations of food (bread, milk, produce) from local groceries to be stored for the food pantry. The food eventually gets moved to Barrett Hall for the Wednesday and Thursday distribution and the Wednesday evening meal.

Members of the Trustees and food ministry teams have been looking at ways to make these transports easier and safer. We have identified several items that need addressing. Our goals are to: replace the badly deteriorated wooden door with a pre-hung, rodent-proof steel door with industrial hardware; replace the crumbling access sidewalk with a concrete ramp; buy three, 5-wheeled, maneuverable U-boat carts for food transport; install a ramp over interior steps; widen an interior doorway; and install an overhang to protect the entrance from snow, ice and rain. We are also looking at better storage for food which does not need refrigeration.

First Church, which has several members serving on our food team, has donated $1,000 toward a new outer door. A $1,000 gift has come from the family of a long-time member. The total cost is anticipated to be $7600.

We are seeking grants for the "Food Delivery Access Project" since the need for these improvements stems directly from our response to local food insufficiency. Our food ministry is ecumenical and open to all. In March seventy-one volunteers worked 995 hours. The pantry provided groceries for 860 households – 6,098 individuals, who have experienced hunger on a regular basis. We served 433 hot meals through St. Joseph's Kitchen.

Thanks to Dave Boyce and the Taconic High School shop, the interior ramp is in place. Dale Prindle is clerk of the works for the exterior doorway and concrete ramp. Alan Honig will be installing the door. First Church member Don Fyfe will be painting the entry hall when the doorways are done. Pat Politis and I have been working on grants. Mary Wheat continues to make the deliveries happen! We all welcome your input and support.
